THE MAPLE LEAF

1920

To
Professor Daniel S. Gerig who for eighteen years has given his devoted service to the upbuilding of Goshen College and whose genuine appreciation of the best things in life has been an inspiration to every student generation,
this volume is affectionately dedicated.

Foreword

In perpetuating the unfolding story of Goshen College for another school year, it is only possible to give some of the lights and shadows, some of the joys and sorrows, some of the outstanding events which have won for this year a place in our memory.

In addition to the fragmentary survey of the year, we have endeavored, in the Historical Section, to trace the growth of Goshen, and record some of the traditions which would soon have been forgotten.

With the hope that our efforts may serve to awaken in the hearts of those who have gone before, some memories of their own college days; that it may arouse a feeling of regret in the hearts of the Seniors; that it may call forth a new note of pride and loyalty in all underclassmen, we present this, the 1920 Maple Leaf.

The Year 1919-20

GOSHEN COLLEGE has added another year to its history—a year filled with events that mark definite steps of progress for the institution. As we look back over the year and compare it with former years we feel that Goshen College has reached another remarkable milestone in its history. Our attendance last fall was greater than any other Fall Term in the history of the school. For the past few years Goshen as well as all other colleges and universities was greatly affected by the conditions of the world. Last fall, however, conditions were more nearly normal and many former students returned to resume their work and many new ones cast their lot with us.

At the beginning of the Fall Term, President H. F. Reist took up his duties as president of the College, succeeding President G. J. Lapp, who resigned to resume his work in the mission field. President Reist has shown us that he is a worthy man and one who has the interests of the College at heart. He has won the respect of both the students and the faculty.

The increase in attendance necessitated an increase in the faculty. Mr. Lehman, who for the year previous had been teaching in Purdue, came back to his old position in the Mathematics Department. All the students who knew him welcomed him into our midst, for his absence has proved more and more his real worth. Prof. J. C. Meyer, a former graduate, took Prof. W. B. Weaver's place as professor of History and Political Science. His training at Indiana and Harvard, together with his experience in reconstruction work in France during the war makes him well fitted for his work. Prof. Weaver was transferred to the Bible Department and now gives his time exclusively to Bible. Miss Martin, after spending a year in Columbia, returned to take up her work in the Normal Department. Mrs. Ruth Blosser-Miller, a former graduate of Goshen and a recent student of Moody Institute, was another addition to the faculty. She taught Academy English the past year. Prof. C. B. Blosser, who was elected Dean of the school, took up the duties in that capacity at the beginning of the year. In addition to these duties he became the new head of the Agriculture Department.

During the Winter Term the Special Short Course attracted a great many students who find it impossible to come thruout the entire year. Prof. J. R. Allgyer, a graduate of Goshen College and Ohio State University, was secured to teach in the Agriculture Department, and President Reist taught a Bible Course. Special courses in Home Economics were offered to accommodate these students. Both dormitories and all available rooming houses were filled to their capacity.

During the Winter Term Prof. Fisher, head of the Department of Philosophy and Education, left with a Reconstruction Unit for Europe. Altho he was greatly missed, we know that thru his investigation and travel the College will be benefited. He is expected to resume his work here in the fall. It was also during the Winter Term that President Reist was forced, on account of failing health, to leave his duties as President of the College and take a complete rest. He left February 23rd, and during his absence Prof. Detweiler was chosen as Acting President.

It has been a policy among educators to make all educational institutions philanthropic institutions. In order to make up annual deficits it is necessary to endow the institutions. If it were not for this policy many students would be unable to go to college. For the past few years Goshen College has been working hard to secure its endowment. Last year Prof. Detweiler was on the field the entire summer and expects to go again the latter part of the school year. He has been very successful in his work. Altho the endowment was not reached it was thru his solicitation that Goshen College could become a standard school.

THE MAPLE LEAF

The big event of the year for the College was the standardization. On Friday, February 13th, our school received the happy news that the State Board had put us on its list of standard colleges. Altho the scholarship of our College had been recognized by other institutions, yet the graduates had difficulty in securing the highest salaries. Since it has become standard all present and future graduates will be recognized by all educational institutions and will have greater opportunities for service. The Faculty and Board of Education know that this means added responsibility. They are not only satisfied to keep it a standard school but intend to make such improvements that will make a bigger and better Goshen College.

Plans are being made to build a gymnasium and a men's dormitory. The present gym has long been too small and a new dormitory is needed also as many of the men have had to live in private homes because of the inadequate rooming facilities.

The outlook for Goshen never was brighter and we feel sure that as she continues to grow, her contribution to the world will become greater and greater.

PRESIDENT REIST

An Appreciation

It is difficult to describe those persons of whom we think the most. It is difficult to depict those characters we most admire. It is such with the man who is our President. Altho he has been with us less than a year, he has won the united respect of the Faculty and the students. His earnest desire to be of service to the students and the school has brot to him the united support of Goshen College and her constituency.

President Reist is always considerate of the wishes of others, yet he is a man of conviction and always does what he considers to be the best. We have all benefited by the association with President Reist; we have met another Christian gentleman, and he has given us inspiration to live our best. Under his leadership, a new era of growth has been inaugurated at Goshen College and the future promises the best for the success of our school.

My Symphony

T was evening. On the moonlit piazza of a seaside cottage an old man sat midst the entrancing stillness of a summer night. All was quiet save the occasional splashing of a lonely wave as it came rippling in to meet the sands of the beach. The broad red path of the moon's rays lay like a ribbon on the quiet waters. In these half-haunted surroundings, the old man sat dreaming; dreaming a dream such as old men dream—not of self but for others.

A footstep, and a young man of perhaps seventeen years came upon the screened piazza.

"Are you sleeping, Grandpa?" queried the voice of the lad.

"No, Lorin, I was only thinking. I was thinking about you. You know your old Granddaddy is proud of you, Lorin. I've just been planning great things for you. Let me see—you go away to college next year, don't you?"

"Yes, next year," answered the lad, taking a chair near the older man.

"Yes, next year," echoed the old man, "and my boy, you know I've been thinking—it's a serious proposition you have ahead of you. It's serious, my boy, because you're building a life. These next four years with your college training, and you will have laid the foundations for success or failure. Only too many fail to realize this until it is too late. And Lorin, I was just wondering, as I was sitting here, if you would be angry if I would give you a few of the things that I have found to be the most worth while in life? I don't want to impose an old man's idea on you, but—"

"Of course I want to learn what others have found to be the best," interrupted the younger, "and I want you to tell me what you have found to be the best." The old man seemed pleased.

"Life, my boy, is a simple matter, but some people make it too hard. They miss the real things of life and cling to the artificial. I suppose that the end of life is happiness, but only too many fail because they do not know what real happiness is. They think that happiness lies in wealth and honor and things of this world. Not so; happiness is merely a state of mind, a state in which the mind is contented. And listen, Lorin, no man ever attained happiness by working for it; happiness comes as a by-product—when one is working for the happiness of someone else—then is when real happiness comes."

The old man paused, but the lad said nothing—he was thinking.

"And Lorin, if you are to do the most good for your fellowmen, you must know human nature. Human beings are the most interesting of all creation, so learn to know them. If a man knows human nature, he can sway the world. But after all, men are very much alike. Some have more abilities than others, some are more brilliant, and yet there is not so much difference between the greatest and the most insignificant. So, my boy, don't make the mistake that so many make and fail to see the good in others. Always look for the good in the other person—it is there. The reason men fail to appreciate each other is because they fail to place themselves in the other fellow's place."

All was silent save the wavering call of a nightingale as it came trembling thru the lifeless air.

"As you have confidence in your fellows, have an unkillable belief in yourself and in the ideals you hold. Remember it is the man who dares that wins. Live the earnest, aggressive life, not a defensive life. It is so much more manly to take the offensive against wrong than it is to be on the defensive. Go at your labors of life with the same determination. This world has no use for the man who is afraid; this world wants men with determination. But with all your aggressiveness, live a life of service. That is what this old world needs today—men who are willing to live their lives for others. My boy, I know what you are thinking; I know you want to see your name written high in places of honor. Listen, my lad, it is only thru service that men rise to greatness. Don't be afraid that in living a life for others that you will live a forgotten life. No, far from that. A life laid down in service never dies. Never fear that yours will be an obscure place in life when you live for others. Never be afraid to do your part—do more—no man ever ascended the ladder of success by doing only what he was supposed to do. Men rise to greatness by doing what they are not supposed to do—by doing more than their share."

Again the old man paused, but the lad said nothing as he half-unconsciously pulled his chair nearer to his grandfather. The old man continued, staring ahead thru the purple moonlight as if reading from the quiet water.

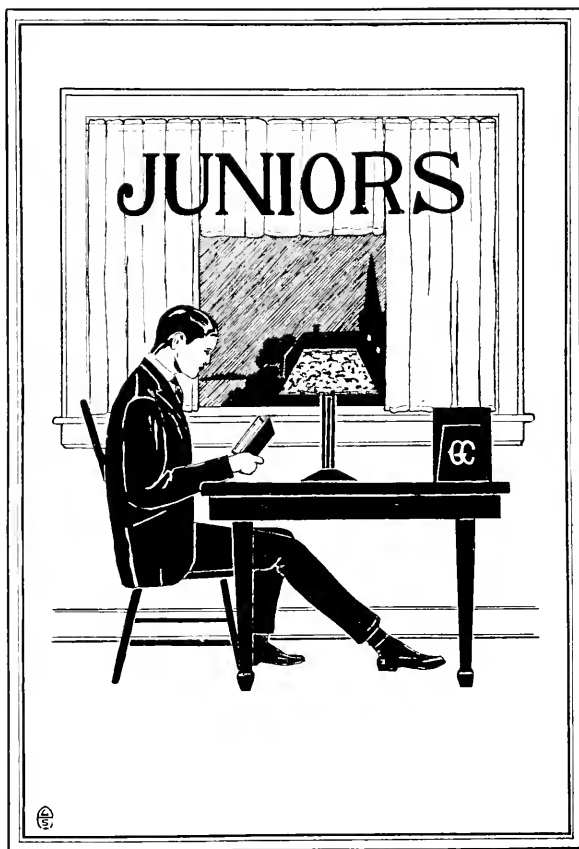

"But, my boy, there is one thing in this world that I am sorry for, and that is that men forget the visions of their youth. Men seem to think after they have been out into life that the visions of youth are nonsense. Not so, I believe that it has been the visions of youth that have made this world move forward. Every great movement was first a dream, and college life ought to be the time of your finest dreams. You will have them—every youth has his visions—but don't make the mistake that so many do and throw them aside. Even if your dreams do not come true, you shouldn't stop dreaming them. And along with visions, there is another thing which is important to the success of every man and that is that there be a purpose in life. A life purpose should be something definite, something that you would be willing to give your whole life for. Make these visions of youth the dominant purpose of your life. Each man has his errand in life, so select yours and give your life to it."

"My son, your life is different from my life—your ways are different from my ways—future generations will do things in yet other ways, but I believe that some of the things that we have just been talking about will last thru time, because they lie at the basis of human success."

They arose. Together they walked to the edge of the piazza, out into the direct rays of the moonlight. Tears stood in the eyes of each; one because he had done a service for one whom he loved; the other because of thankfulness.

The boy spoke, "Grandfather, I will follow your advice."

The old man smiled, "I am glad if you do, I believe it will help you. These are some of the things that I have found most worth while. This is MY SYMPHONY."

"Modest and capable and with a heart as big as all out doors." Lena is a thoughtful and diligent student. She meets difficulties with a spirit not easily daunted.

DANIEL HOSTETTLER      SUGARCREEK, O.

A singer of note is this quiet, unassuming young Buckeye. Ever ready for a good time, he is studious, forceful, and self-controlled; but they say he is losing his heart.

GRACE HUITEMA      NEW PARIS, IND.

Grace is from New Paris. Don't tell us her name will not head articles of the leading magazines some day. She's a literary star and we're mighty glad to have her in our class.

R. R. SMUCKER      GOSHEN, IND.

Always cheerful and optimistic, with a deep sense of duty to his fellowmen, and a firm determination to do his part in the evangelization of the world. The class is loath to part with him as he leaves to take up his duties on the India Mission Field.

Class Motto—"Character, the Only True Diploma"

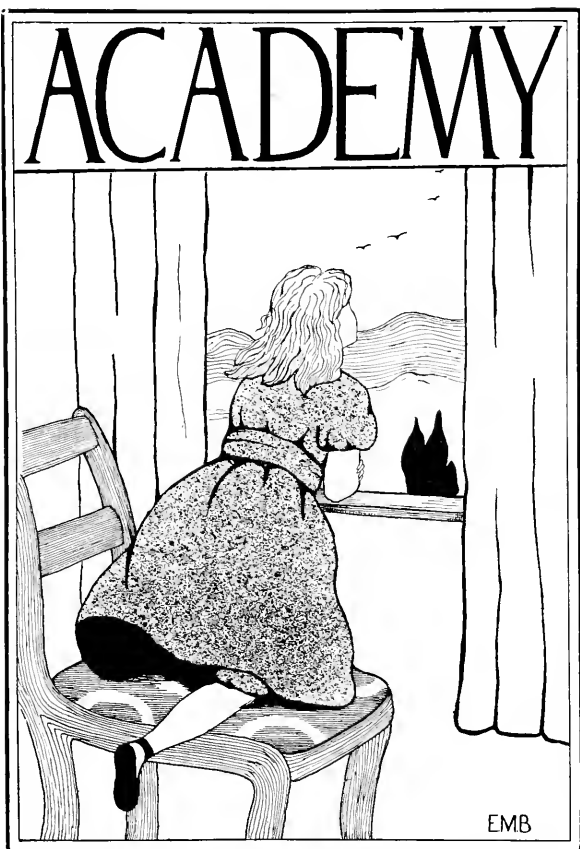

Class Colors—Green and Gold

Class Flower—Yellow Rose

We have always felt that the rest of the College looks upon the Freshman class as a sort of necessary evil; that we are tolerated rather than fostered. Accordingly, we have during the past year, tried very hard to be useful members of Goshen College, to minimize whatever annoyance we may have caused, and increase our worth both as individuals and as a class.

With a class-roll of seventy-four, it will be seen that our class constitutes over one-half of the College enrollment. But it is not in numbers alone that we excel. Our basketball team won the College championship. The annual debate with our favorite enemies, the Sophomores, resulted in a victory for our class. We—but to continue this would become tiresome, so we will simply say, "Look us over!"

It is not our intention to rest upon the laurels we have won, we mean to keep on striving, and hope that the splendid spirit which has characterized us in our achievements as Freshmen will remain with us through the balance of our college years, that we may, when we graduate, justify our Motto: "Character, the only true diploma."

History of the Academy Class of 1920

IN the fall of 1916, twenty-three verdant Freshmen entered Goshen College Academy. The expression, "great things have small beginnings," applied very well to our class. We recognized our low position, but worked to win a great place in the future. We organized and chose Chester Cripe as class president. After the first nine months of school we left with a fair addition to our knowledge.

The next fall we returned as Sophomores. There were nineteen of us, some new members and some old. We were safely guided thru the year by our president, Roy Weaver. We enjoyed a number of socials, especially one in which we entertained the Freshmen. These socials helped to keep the class united and developed class spirit. Several members of the class showed their ability in literary work by taking part in the inter-class debate.

There were again nineteen of us in our Junior year and we were a jolly bunch. We again chose Mr. Weaver as president. We lost the inter-class debate, but those who debated and lost felt that they had gained by the experience, and in the class more "pep" and real class spirit were aroused than ever before, because of the contest. This year the Academy Literary Societies engaged in an oratorical and reading contest, and we were proud to have a member of our class as one of the winners.

A number of pleasant events occurred during the year, among which was the social at the home of the class professor, E. J. Zook, during the Winter Term, and the Junior-Senior banquet at the home of Ruby Smoker during the Spring Term.

A number of the Juniors did not return to graduate with us, but twenty-three dignified (?) Seniors entered upon the last year with heart and soul to make it the crowning year. By the end of the first term, only nineteen (that number which seemed to suit our class better than any other) remained; and of those only four—Ruby Smoker, Martha Bond, Roy Weaver and Willard Snider—were members of the Freshman class in 1916. Mr. Weaver was again chosen as our class president.

There was no Junior-Senior debate because of the illness of one of the members of the Junior team.

Altho there were only six boys among the thirteen girls we got along splendidly. In the Fall Term we entertained the Juniors at a Hallowe'en social. In the Winter Term we were royally entertained by Esther and Samuel Burkhard at their home, and in the Spring Term by Prof. and Mrs. E. J. Zook, our class professor and his wife, at their home, and by the Juniors at the Junior-Senior banquet.

We have had much hard work, but have also had our share of pleasure, and have tried to live up to our motto: Semper Fidelis.

Bible School

 HERE are two great and significant movements in the world today. They are evangelization of the world and religious education. The Church has always recognized these movements in her activities. Religious education has always had a great bearing upon evangelization, and again evangelization has always had a bearing on religious education. There is an interrelation that dare not be neglected. Those who are interested in the program of Christian missions see the value of this intimate relation. We can not expect to maintain a strong spirit of evangelization in the church unless we give attention to religious education. Neither can we maintain the true spirit of religious education unless we include the evangelization of the world in our education.

During more recent years there has been a new interest in religious education as a movement. In this movement religious education aims to construct the Christian social standards as well as proclaim the good news of the Gospel. It is not enough that we preach the Gospel of the Kingdom. We are also interested in the relation of individuals with individuals after they have accepted the principles of the Gospel. Religious education deals especially with this phase of building the church.

What has been said of the relation between evangelization and religious education must also hold in the relation between religious education and secular education. The church is no longer satisfied when she has educated a few to whom she is looking for leadership. The men and women who are to engage in business and other necessary pursuits of life must also receive a proper amount of religious education with the training they receive in the high school and college. We are feeling more dependence upon the layman for active support and leadership in the work of the church. If the layman is to assume more responsibility in the work of the church he must also have more training.

To this end Goshen College is arranging the courses of the Bible School. Each year there has been an effort made to strengthen and enlarge this department. New courses have been added from time to time until now we have five departments. These departments are the Old Testament, New Testament, Biblical Theology, Practical Theology, and Historical Theology. These courses cover the general field of religious study. The courses in Old Testament and New Testament deal with the literature and interpretation of the Bible. The courses in Theology use more nearly the topical method of study. There will be a new emphasis upon religious education for next year. Professor Wm. B. Weaver, who has come into the Bible Department from the Department of History, will pay special attention to the subject of religious education.

DEPARTMENTS

It is the aim to have three teachers in the Bible Department. One who shall be responsible for the teaching of the Old Testament, one for the New Testament, and the third for the practical, historical, and educational courses. In this way we are in a position to offer the first year of a regular Seminary course.

School of Music

THE history of the School of Music may well be characterized as being a progressively vitalizing spirit, for, in each succeeding year of its existence it has played more effectively its indispensable role in the unfolding life-ideals of Goshen College.

A number of elements and personalities deserve recognition in accounting for this development, but to Professor John D. Brunk, the first "regular" director and instructor, rightly belongs the larger share of credit for organizing the school on an adequate basis and for creating an appreciation for the good in music.

Mr. Brunk also organized and for seven years personally directed the Philharmonic chorus which plays so large a part in the life of the College.

With these ideals formed the succeeding and present director, Professor Ebersole has in his seven years of service, succeeded in developing both a larger musical appreciation and a higher standard in courses to the extent that the year just past has called forth the voluntary personal commendation of the Indiana State Supervisor of Teachers' Training and has placed the department on the list of state accredited schools for the training of public school music teachers and supervisors.

With these standards an accomplished fact, and with the present fine corps of teachers together with the promise of a more adequate school home the future outlook is highly encouraging.

The past year has broken all previous records for enrollment in sight singing and ear training classes as well as for private study of voice and piano. There were two graduates from the Teachers' Certificate course.

The class in art, too, was several times its former normal size.

The activities of the Philharmonic Chorus and of the Glee Clubs were the source of unusual interest and recreation thruout the year. The Acapella Chorus also deserves special mention for its very definite musical ministry in bringing the spirit of the College to community churches in the form of sacred octavo music and a cantata.

Home Economics

VOCATIONAL education is demanding the attention of the present day. Employers demand persons who are skilled in their particular lines of work, being at the same time thoro, interested and active. Only vocational training can bring greater efficiency so that when every available factor is put into use, the hands are actively engaged in performing their duties, while the mind also is busy, growing more active and able. In this way the constructive work done will not be mere machine work but personality will be developed. Greater joy in work and in life, as well as satisfaction to the employer, is realized by knowing why things are done in certain ways, and not merely in the doing.

Today the college girl, in addition to academic work, is asking for training in home-making and house-keeping, which is one phase of vocational education. Unless the instinct for home-making is developed and trained the home cannot be the ideal place in which to foster the development of manhood and womanhood for the future. In past years it has been recognized that her brother should have training for his profession by attending a school in which he could obtain such training and thereby develop his instincts for particular work. Comparatively recent has been the establishment of the Home Economics School wherein the sister may develop her inherent instinct for the care of the home and family.

THE MAPLE LEAF

Social and educational leaders are realizing more and more the need of the maintenance of the home as a basic institution in society. Even tho schools and churches take up training in various lines they cannot do for individuals what a home can to develop strong character.

The Home Economics Department of the College has gained for itself an honorable place which we feel it cannot lose, but must continue as an important and permanent part of the institution. The department has made much progress in its four years of activity and has materially added to the growth of the institution. The many young women who are taking work in Home Economics and their manifest interest in the science of home-making and house-keeping, bespeak for the department a real success. It places the women in a position to see the characteristics of the ideal home and thereby to apply the principles to the problems of actual life. Since we must recognize the importance of house-keeping to be on an equality with other vocations it must be a part of the regular curricula of our schools.

The aims of this department of the College are to place house-keeping on a higher plane; to show how the activities of the household can be related to the strengthening of character in each member of the home; and to make the house-keeper feel that her work is not drudgery if she considers the various activities not as mere ends in themselves but as means to an end, and that end the development of manhood and womanhood that shall have a real share in the work of the world.

The School of Business

THE Commercial Department is one of the oldest departments of Goshen College. It was organized at the very beginning of the Elkhart Institute. At that time there was a great demand for practical courses in bookkeeping, shorthand and general commercial work to fit the young people for positions in the business world and this department was organized in response to this demand. As the Institution grew, more emphasis was placed upon the cultural side of education and the Liberal Arts course became the prominent feature. At the present time the great demand is for people who are equipped with an education which combines both the cultural and the practical. The Commercial Department offers courses to meet this demand.

The School of Business has outlined its courses to fit with the academy and the college work and yet meet the demands made upon business schools. The most modern methods and systems are used in all of the departments. In the typewriting department the touch system which is known for speed and accuracy is taught on well kept machines of standard makes. In bookkeeping, the Rowe method is used, which is comprehensive and flexible, thus giving the student a broad field. The Gregg System of Shorthand has been adopted and this being the most widely used system prepares the graduates for the majority of business positions.

Two classes are directly benefited by this department, first: those students who find it impossible to remain in the Institution long enough to finish an Academy course, or those who wish to supplement such a course and find it desirable to do so by taking courses in business. Second, those who want a full commercial course, here receive work as good as is given by any school and receive the benefit of a college environment.

Besides the regular business students in the School of Business many academy and college students take elective courses in bookkeeping and typewriting that they may be better fitted to be efficient in their chosen occupation. For the benefit of those special students, especially those interested in agriculture, a special course in farm bookkeeping is given.

The aim of the department in all its work is to be thoroly practical and enable the student to fit at once into any business position he may be called upon to occupy. A certificate is granted upon completion of the one year course and a diploma at the close of a full two years' course.

DEPARTMENTS

There are many ways of judging the efficiency of a school, but the method that is most reliable and which is mostly used, is the test of practicability. This is best proved by the students who have attended a school and then get into the active world. The fact that graduates of the Department of Business have entered into active business life and have been successful speaks well for the efficiency of the work given. A roll of the alumni and former business students shows that not only are many graduates succeeding in business, but many have gone into advanced educational work.

The modern requirements of the business world may be summed up in the words, thoroness, accuracy and completeness. The Business Department strives to meet these requirements and is an oasis for development of the student with initiative.

School of Agriculture

ONE of the great problems before the world today, as a result of the recent war, is the production of food. The very existence of life depends upon an adequate supply and this supply is obtained thru the time-old industry of agriculture. It has been a long recognized fact that every human activity depends upon the industry of agriculture, but in spite of this it is only a comparatively short time since much attention has been given to scientific agriculture. It is true that some progress was made along this line, but it was very slow until the government took up this work.

The constituency of Goshen College is composed primarily of agricultural people. If this institution would not meet the demands of its people along this line it would certainly fail to a large extent in its mission. It was on account of these demands that this institution deviated from the general courses of other colleges and established the School of Agriculture in 1915. The immediate purpose was to give agricultural training to young men who felt the need of such an education.

This was made possible by the erection of the new Science Hall, the whole basement of which is devoted to this work. The first instructor of Agriculture was Prof. Jesse Stutsman, who taught in this department for two years. In 1918, Prof. C. B. Blosser took charge of the work. At this time new equipment was obtained, more courses were offered, and a larger enrollment was realized.

Four distinct types of work are offered: a regular four-year course of study; a twenty-four weeks' short course; courses for grade teachers; and courses in the Academy for High School students.

The four-year course is of College grade and is organized into three departments, namely: Department of Animal Husbandry, Department of Agronomy, Department of Horticulture.

It is the purpose of the School of Agriculture to offer such courses as will insure not only a broad cultural education, but also a thoro training in the science as well as the art of Agriculture. It is the purpose to correlate, in so far as possible, the theory taught in the class room with actual practice in the fields and buildings of the College Farm.

DEPARTMENTS

The College is fortunate in having a 60-acre farm situated in close proximity to the College buildings. A competent manager is in charge of the farm and modern equipment is being added as rapidly as possible.

A large modern dairy barn, ranking with the best in the state, is being stocked with pure bred animals. The management is preparing to have representatives from the most important dairy breeds in order to have good stock for judging and experimental work. Preparations are being made to secure all classes of live stock to be used for experimental work, and to correlate the practical with class room work.

The farm is located on the Elkhart Prairie just east of the college. This makes it very convenient for experimental plots and work of that type.

The laboratories are equipped with necessary appliances of various kinds.

The Dairy Laboratory is furnished with laboratory tables, steam testers, hand testers, drying ovens, cream separators, churn and butter workers, scales and other essential equipment.

The College has recently erected several new poultry houses in which flocks of birds are kept for practical work in poultry. Incubators and other poultry devices are also used.

The Soils Laboratory is furnished with the necessary equipment for thoro courses in soils.

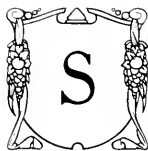

In the Agronomy and Horticulture laboratories are found seeds of all the various farm plants, seed corn testers, laboratory tables, pruning outfits, spraying outfits and other necessities for such work.

Altho the laboratories are fairly well equipped, yet other apparatus is needed, which will be added as funds are available. The College feels that with this department well equipped and strong it can make a very definite contribution to the church as well as the whole country.

School of Education

SCHOOL teaching has received more attention during this year than ever before in our history. We have realized that we are a democratic country and have recognized some of the faults of our system. A self-governed people must be a thinking people if they are to be well governed. This has turned the eyes of the public to the public school as the solution for many of the existing evils. Education and democracy are bound up in the unending chain of mutual cause and effect. The schools cannot neutralize but can minimize the handicaps resting upon society. From year to year greater responsibilities are being placed upon the teachers who are to prepare the boys and girls to fit into an increasingly larger unit with intelligence and thought.

It is the purpose of the Educational Department to help the prospective teachers to realize that teaching school is the finest type of public service that any one can render; to see the real problems as they exist today; to understand the natural resources of the human mind and to have a knowledge of methods used in developing them. This is brought out through social activities.

During the year a great amount of planning and organizing has been done in the work of the department. The courses have been revised according to the new state requirements. A new two-year and a four-year curriculum has been worked out. In the Spring Term we offered the courses from the new curriculum. We have tried to adapt the work to the needs of the students who are taking short courses and responding to the call due to the present shortage of teachers and to those we see the benefits of taking the full two years of training. We believe that from year to year more students will see the importance of working for the two-year Provisional Certificate and Life Certificate and of completing the four-year course.

We have had the largest student enrollment of any year made up of those working for the A, B and C class certificates, for the two-year and the four-year provisionals. The Department is planning the work to meet the needs of the student teachers and give such variety of work that they will be equipped for the special grade or grades which they expect to teach. Supervised observation is carried on in all of the grades and under well trained teachers. Opportunity is given for special study of the different problems in the various grades and of the various types of children. Students are required to teach under supervision and to learn from practice as well as from theory.

We used the city schools, elementary, junior high, the one-room and two-room rural schools for the observation work. Miss Enloe, an experienced normal school teacher, has had charge of the Rural Demonstration School where most of the supervised teaching was done. During the year we had the opportunity to study new movements, to see them in actual progress and to some extent measure the results. It is the intention of the department to put on the full two-year and the four-year curricula for the next year and to make a more extended study of the actual problems within our reach.

Summer School

ONE might think that it would be a snap to go to school in summer; all that one would need to do would be to study a little (perhaps) and sleep the rest of the time. Not so! The life of the Summer School student is a hard life. He must get up in time for a 6:30 breakfast or go hungry; he must study hard and long; he must fight mosquitoes; if a boy, he must eat at the table with five girls; if a girl, she must eat at a table with four girls and one boy. Oh ye dreamers, cease your dreaming and try to appreciate for a moment the lot of the Summer School student. I close my eyes and even now I can see Miss Lindsey studying for hours over a Latin sentence; I can see Ralph Miller really making an honest effort to get up in time for breakfast; I can see Wilbur Miller crawling into the fountain to get away from the mosquitoes.

But Summer School is not such a bad place after all. Altho the organizations which make up the life of the regular school year are absent, there are other organizations and activities to take their places. The Country Life Club was again organized this year and was responsible for the literary activities. The officers of the Club were: President, David Miller; Secretary, Verda Steiner. A number of literary programs were given. The program which we will perhaps remember longest was the debate on the question: "Resolved, that students of Goshen College be required to bake bread before they receive the A. B. degree." The decision was in favor of the affirmative.

Dean Gerig appointed several committees which looked after the religious and social life of the Summer School. The religious committee provided for the Devotional and Bible Study meetings. The Devotional meetings were held every two weeks during the entire summer. Several open discussions were held and also several talks were given, Prof. Keller and Prof. Detweiler being among those who talked in the Devotional meetings. The Religious committee also provided for the Bible Study classes which met every Tuesday evening directly after supper. The young ladies' class was taught by Prof. Gerig. The book which the young ladies studied was "Under the Highest Leadership," while the young men studied the "Social Principles of Jesus." The young men did not have a regular teacher but took turns at leading the discussions. Both classes took a lively interest in the work and it was a success in every way.

The social part of the Summer School was a very significant part of the activities. The Social committee which was appointed provided several worth while socials. The first was the acquaintance social which was held on the campus at the beginning of the term. This social was a decided success and after the social everybody felt themselves to be a part of a big family. Another social was held in the woods near the close of the term. At this social the entire student body went out for their supper. The students were divided into "families" and each family had to give a stunt. In addition to these socials in which the entire student body took part, there were a number of boating parties in which bacon and eggs were usually in evidence. There was an organization of Kulp Hall girls known as the IX's which was responsible for the marriage of four of its members. (These weddings were mock weddings.) In addition to these organizations there were a number of "unofficial" organizations which were always in evidence.

The attendance this summer was almost normal again altho the girls outnumbered the boys about five to one. The total attendance was 140. This attendance was considerably larger than last year, and next summer an increased attendance can be expected.

The Model School again featured the work of the Summer School. A model school room was provided in the large social room on the second floor of Science Hall and 24 children living in the vicinity of the College attended this school. This Model School term lasted for four weeks. Each of the prospective teachers had a chance to try their skill at the art of teaching. This school was in charge of Miss Martin and with her extended experience in this line of work, the Model School proved an advantage to those expecting to teach.

Tennis proved to be the most popular pastime. The tennis "courts" were always occupied, the tennis doubles championship being won by Miss Gladys Miller and Mr. David Miller. Several Intercollegiate tournaments were played with Manchester College. The first was played at Manchester when the Goshen players, Shoup and Weaver, were defeated 6-1, 6-0, 6-2. The next tournament was played on the local courts and again the Goshen boys were defeated, but the Goshen girls' team, Miss Hirst and Miss Miller, defeated the girls' team from Manchester in straight sets. This was the first tennis tournament that Goshen ever won from Manchester.

There are many incidents by which we will always remember the Summer of 1919. Among others might be mentioned the midnight plunge of Wilbur Miller; but Mr. Miller asked us not to mention this incident so we must refrain from telling you about it. There have been so many ways by which things have been impressed on our memories that we can always remember the Summer School of 1919.

Y. P. C. A. of Goshen College

NO INSTITUTION can fill its largest place unless there is some definite provision made for the development of its religious life. In an institution of learning this is especially true; one devotes so much time to the acquisition of knowledge that there is a tendency to place too much emphasis on the intellectual side and to measure everything upon an intellectual basis, unless provision is made to emphasize religious activity. The Y. P. C. A. fills this place in Goshen College.

The policy of the Association, which in a way governed its activities during the past year, may best be summed up under several heads: first, Christianity as a practical religion was emphasized and constant effort was made to help students realize that the right kind of Christian living is most conducive to progress and success. The second aim was to do positive work. Frequently when a large number of tasks are undertaken, comparatively few are accomplished or completed definitely. It has been this year's policy to consider what problems were most important and deal with them in as definite a way as possible. Third, responsibility was distributed among the various Cabinet and Committee members, giving them not only an opportunity to develop leadership but also an opportunity to extend the work of the organization thru their respective departments. Fourth, the Association realized that in order to do more effective work and in order to become more efficient it is necessary to get away from one's immediate environment and get new experience by coming in contact with others and by learning from their experiences. For this purpose representatives of the organization attended different conferences and brought back reports which were full of information and inspiration, and which aroused us to do better and more extensive work. Representatives from Goshen attended the following conferences: Lake Geneva, Detroit, Elida, Des Moines, Fellowship of Reconciliation, Officers Training, and the Earlham Missions.

The Finance Committee of the Y. P. C. A. aims to take care of the funds which are essential to the life and growth of the organization. It collects all dues, and provides other means of raising funds. The Committee also makes the disbursements of these finances to the various places to which the Association contributes. This year a large per cent. of the funds were given to the mission cause. All contributions in any form are considered a sacred charge for the extension of His Kingdom.

The Devotional Committee arranged programs for the weekly Devotional and Prayer Meetings and it provided programs that would satisfy the needs and demands of the students. It also co-operated in all movements tending to develop the spiritual life of the institution.

It was the aim of the Membership Committee to meet the new students upon arrival in the city and to take care of them in a very definite way until they had become acquainted with their environment and had learned to know the other students. This Committee made special efforts to show a personal interest in new students; it also attempted to have each student become an active member of some Christian church.

RELIGIOUS

The Bible Study Committee succeeded in enrolling a large per cent. of the students in Bible Study classes, and thereby helped to make Christ more real in every day life. The courses offered were of such a nature as to help every student to become a true Christian. This Committee chose the books for the various groups, and also arranged the groups and chose the leaders. The Morning Watch was emphasized.

The Mission Study Committee created an active interest in missions and in active missionary work. This was done by planning Mission Study groups and by selecting books for those groups which were best fitted to create the most interest in missions.

The Social Committee planned their work so as to create the proper social atmosphere in and about the institution. It arranged the May Day Outing during last Spring Term and also provided a term social at the beginning of each of the Fall and Winter Terms. The purpose of these socials was to help new students to adapt themselves to their new social environment. The Committee also secured Miss Martha Martin to give a lecture to the girls and Mr. J. C. Meyer to give a lecture to the men on "Social Etiquette Around Goshen College."

The Extension Committee kept us in touch with other associations by carrying on all necessary correspondence. It also aimed to extend the cause of Christ by giving programs in the city and the surrounding country. This Committee does any general work that does not fall under the head of any special department.

The Employment Committee helped to provide for the economic welfare of students who were attempting to earn their way thru college. Many students were given work. The Committee made a special point of emphasizing that all students put their best into their work and do it in the most satisfactory manner possible. They also remembered students who are working by sending them tokens of remembrance when they are ill and by visiting them and seeing that they obtained proper care.

The Association workers in order to be successful must determine at the outset to sacrifice a great deal of time and effort, but they feel amply repaid when at the end of the year they realize they have been a part of an organization that has been the means of making Christ more real in the lives of others.

The Foreign Volunteer Band is composed of those students and members of the faculty who plan to become foreign workers if the way opens and God leads.

The task facing the Christian body of believers at the present time is a large one. Added responsibilities come because of the knowledge of the conditions existing in the famine stricken countries, as well as the Christless state of the people of heathen nations. Our Master said, "Go ye into all the world . . ." Does that mean me? The aim of the Band is two-fold: to help the student to face the above question and to answer it in an intelligent way by encouraging them to take a positive attitude toward the missionary movement, and to respond to the call as God directs; and to be a mutual help to those who have decided that their life-work lies in foreign lands.

Meetings were held each week. Every alternate Sunday the Band studied the book, "The Appeal of Medical Missions," inviting any students who were interested to join in the meeting and take part in the discussion. Immediate problems were discussed at the meetings held during the week. The Band gave a public program once each term, for the purpose of bringing before the students the conditions of other lands and the challenge these conditions present.

The motto of the Band is: "The Evangelization of the World in this Generation." It is the aim of the members of the Band to study more definitely the needy fields and also the methods that will make the strongest appeal to the people with whom the missionaries must work.

PROGRAM COMMITTEE

Clayton H. Kratz, Chairman
Wilma Smucker                      Ralph R. Smucker

THE CHRISTIAN WORKERS' BAND is considered one of the most important religious organizations of the student body. It is composed of those students who are desirous of preparing themselves for some definite religious work. The membership of the band has been thirty during the past year. These members with visitors meet every alternate Sunday morning at 8:30. At these meetings the speakers, who are usually members of the band, discuss problems bearing upon some phase of religious activity. It is the aim of the band to have every member appear on the program at some time, and thus get some practical experience along these lines. Outside speakers are also invited to give lectures to the organization.

Some of the topics discussed during the past year were: "The Art of Character Building;" "The Voice of God in the Twentieth Century;" "Reconstruction in Europe;" "Choosing a Life Work;" "The Sunday Problem;" "Place of the Mennonite Church in the World Today."

Special efforts were made so that the subjects discussed at these meetings related to the problems and conditions confronting the church at large as well as the local communities. The main purpose of these programs and of the Band is to get the students familiar with the actual conditions that exist, how to become successful workers, and to instill into the lives of all that deep missionary spirit which brings us closer to our Creator.

The Band has adopted the slogan: "The Evangelization of the World in This Generation" which is the slogan of the World's Student Volunteer Movement.

Goshen in Relief and Reconstruction Work

The ideals of an institution are worthy only in so far as they function in practical life. Service has been the foremost ideal to impress itself upon the students of Goshen College and under its stimulating influence it was but natural that when the call for service came there were many students and alumni who were ready to answer the call. The Friends Service Committee for the war stricken areas of Europe and the American Committee for Relief in the Near East offered fields for service. By the generous and faithful work the veil of gloom has been drawn aside for many a disheartened refugee and a new vision of hope was developed. Quite a number of the workers have returned to the homeland while others are still in the various countries in Europe and the Near East. The story is not complete and its meaning must be left to the future which alone can interpret it in its full significance.

Student Conferences

THE GENEVA CONFERENCE

For a number of years Goshen has been represented at the Lake Geneva Student Conferences which are held at Lake Geneva, Wisconsin. Those conferences are held under the direction of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A., and usually last for a period of ten days.

The 1919 Young Men's Conference was held June 14-24. Those who attended last summer's conference were Prof. D. S. Gerig, A. R. Eschliman, H. E. Nunemaker, Harry F. Weber, H. Clay Miller, and Vernon D. Shoup.

The Young Women's Conference was held August 19-29. Those who attended last summer were the Misses Wilma Smucker, Josephine Lehman, Bertha Leaman, Savilla Wenger, Ella Harnish, Iva Yoder, and Mary Good.

ELIDA CONFERENCE

The Mennonite Missionary Conference was held at Elida, Ohio, December 27-29, 1919. The delegates sent from Goshen College were Mary Good and David Miller. They reported a large attendance representing a large number of states and a very good interest was shown thruout the whole conference.

The dominant purpose of the conference was to create a greater interest in the need of Christianity in the world today, and to show to us our responsibility in accomplishing this end.

DES MOINES CONVENTION

The Student Volunteer Convention was held at Des Moines, Iowa, December 31st to January 4th. The purpose of this great organization is to awaken a deeper interest in the missionary enterprise and to enlist as many as possible in actual work.

The conference, whose Chairman was Dr. John R. Mott, was a notable success. Such speakers as Robert E. Speer, Sherwood Eddy, and Dr. Zwemer sounded the call of a needy world, and drove home the glorious opportunity of service.

The delegates attending the convention from Goshen were Mrs. Ruth Blosser-Miller, Anna Allgyer, Clayton Kratz, and Noah Burkhard.

THE OSKALOOSA CONFERENCE

The first Mid-West Conference of the Fellowship of Reconciliation was held at the Friends' Meeting House in Oskaloosa, Iowa on March 12-14, 1920. The addresses concerned themselves largely with the world's need of a new spirit and the "enthronement of Love in personal, social, industrial, national, and international life, with all that this implies."

Thru the interest of the Y. M. C. A., Goshen was represented at this conference by Prof. D. S. Gerig.

40TH INTERNATIONAL Y. M. C. A. CONVENTION

Mr. A. L. Sprunger represented Goshen College at the 40th International Y. M. C. A. Convention in Detroit from November 19-23, 1919. The purpose of this convention was to strengthen the bonds that hold the different departments of the organization together and to get a definite program in operation for the solution of the post-war problems before us.

OFFICERS' TRAINING CONFERENCE

The Officers' Training Conference of the student Y. M. C. A. was held at De Pauw University April 9-12, 1920. The purpose of the conference was to discuss different plans of organization and operation of the associations in the various colleges. The conference was inspirational and the delegates, Allen Y. King and Arthur L. Sprunger, returned with many valuable suggestions.

THE EARLHAM CONVENTION

The Indiana Student Volunteer Convention was held at Earlham College April 16-18, 1920. The main purpose of the meeting was to get a broader view of the missionary movement and to discuss ways of fostering the missionary spirit in our college. J. Lovell Murray, D. O. Cunningham, and Edward J. Pace were among the speakers.

Goshen College was represented at this convention by Edna Snyder, Nellie Miller, Lillian Snyder, Esther Steiner, A. R. Kenagy and Irvin Bauman.

The Literary Review of the Year

THE Literary Societies play a large part at Goshen College. They form an important phase of the outside work. There are six societies, all very active; two rival societies for the college women—Avon and Vesperian; two societies for the college men—Aurora and Adelphean. The Philomathean Society is the academy society for girls and the Ciceroian for the academy boys. Practically all of the students are members of one of these societies. The rivalry between the college societies is of a friendly nature and tends to make literary work more interesting for all concerned. A new student has the privilege of joining either society and this usually produces considerable anxiety in solicitation. The societies meet regularly at 4:20 on Monday evenings in their separate halls for private programs. The purpose of these programs is to develop literary ability in debating, reading, oratory and parliamentary law. Music is often added to give variety to the program. These programs are educational as live present day subjects are discussed and opportunity is given to everyone to develop their talents. Each society has its elective officers and in this list there is a critic whose duty it is to criticize and give helpful suggestions.

More intensive literary work is gained by virtue of the public programs given in the Assembly Hall. The societies being divided into three pairs furnish a program every two weeks. The public is invited to these programs which are always interesting, unique and original. The public programs necessitate society co-operation which fosters a valuable spirit. Some of the programs given this year were "President Wilson Entertaining King Albert of Belgium", "A Literary Circle", "Uncrowned Victors", "Nationalities in Musical America", and "Lincoln, the American".

The public program on the College cart was especially interesting. The old cart had to give way to a new one and the students wished to pay respect to the vehicle which had served them so long. All societies joined in the program, each furnishing one number in the memorial.

Besides private and public programs, outside programs are given. Quite often a society is called upon to furnish a part or all of a program at a "Farm Betterment Club" or country school. This gives an opportunity for the students to get away from the familiar audiences and face strangers, and this is valuable in literary training. The outside programs are not usually intensive, but are duplicates of numbers given in private programs.

All the societies have experienced a decided growth over last year, especially in the academy societies. This gives larger audiences, but adds the disadvantage that individual members get less experience.

To the literary activity is added the social element. It is not unusual for one society to invite another to its program. It is an unwritten law to have inter-society socials. The co-operating societies usually entertain each other. The past year has been a great year in literary work and we hope that it will always remain on that high plane.

The Students' Lecture Board

Vera Thornton	Clayton Kratz
Ernest Bohn	A. F. Grassmyer
Wilma Smucker	Ruth Brubaker
Prof. Kurtz

The Students' Lecture Board is composed of students representing each of the six literary societies, both of the College and the Academy. The president of the board is a member of the faculty, who has general oversight of the work.

The different literary societies are providing for these lectures and entertainments for the purpose of bringing to the student body some of the best talent in literary work. These lectures are provided with the idea of extending the work of the literary societies, and also for giving to the friends of the College an opportunity to attend programs of this nature. For the last few years the board has cooperated with the Ministerial Association of the city and as a result of this the programs were given in the different churches of the city.

The course of this year was as follows:

- Nov. 11—Wallace Ansberry—Presbyterian Church—"An Evening With Riley."
- Feb. 12—Mariou B. Fisk—Baptist Church—"Queer Characters I Have Known."
- March 5—Fred G. Bale—Methodist Church—"The Fourth Line of Defense."
- March 18—Sidney Landon—Brethren Church—"Speaking Likenesses of Great Men."
- April 20—Glenn Frank—Reformed Church—"Old Order vs. New Disorder."

The course was exceptionally good this year. It is the aim of the board to get the best talent possible with the means at hand.

The course for next year has been arranged for, and from all indications it will be as good if not better than the one of this year. The financial condition of the board is in such a condition that even better talent can be procured.

Every college must have a well equipped and properly maintained library, if its work is to be most satisfactorily carried on. No college can work effectively if it does not have access to library accommodations. Realizing this fact early in the history of Goshen College, the Literary Societies of that institution took advanced steps to supply that requirement, and for this purpose organized the Students' Library Association. This association is composed of all the members of both academy and college literary societies. Its officers are elected from the society members, and its finances are obtained by assessment which is based upon a stipulated per cent of all regular term fees, paid into the literary societies. By this scheme of financing, the association is certain of its support and is enabled to enlarge its equipment as the institution's growth requires such enlargement.

During the past year the association has made special effort to be of service to the institution; thru purchase of needed books, by providing reference shelves to facilitate the securing of needed material, by providing conveniences for students in the reading room, etc. The library this year provided two local daily papers, four large dailies, twelve weekly publications, and seventeen monthly magazines.

The selection of magazines and books is made thru a committee composed of one faculty member, and one member from each of the six literary societies. Books and publications are selected with the aim of providing material which will be useful to student interests, in the different departments of activity: Religion, Scientific, Educational, Social, Agricultural, etc. The book committee this year has purchased ninety books classified as follows:

The Oratorical Association holds a very distinct and important place among the activities of the school and there are few organizations that so definitely help their members. The Oratorical Association has charge of the interclass debates, intercollegiate debates, interclass oratorical contest and the intercollegiate peace contest, and the membership of the association is extended to those who take part in these events.

The work of the association has been marked by unusual activity this year. The interclass debates were again carried on between all the classes; the intercollegiate debates, as well as the Intercollegiate Peace Contest were held after a lapse of two years, and the Interclass Oratorical Contest was again held as is the usual custom. Unusual interest was shown in all of these contests.

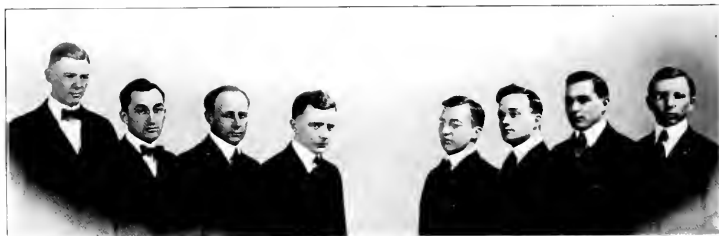

Intercollegiate debates were held this year for the first time since the spring of 1917. Early in the year arrangements were made with Mt. Morris and Manchester Colleges to reorganize the Triangular Debating League. These debates were held on the 26th of March. Altho Goshen was defeated in both of these debates, we feel that the work was in every way satisfactory. This is the first year that Goshen was ever defeated in both debates.

It has been deemed advisable, because of the expense of the trip to Mt. Morris and for other reasons, to discontinue connections with the Mt. Morris College and organize a league of colleges nearer to Goshen. Manchester, Goshen, and one other college, possibly Kalamazoo or Indiana Central, will compose the new league.

Junior-Senior Debate

SENIOR TEAM

Meyer, Eshliman, Burkhard, Shoup

JUNIOR TEAM

Nunemaker, Grassmyer, Kratz, L. Hershberger

Unusual interest was shown in the interclass debates this year, and all of the debates were big successes. The annual Junior-Senior debate was held on the evening of November 24th. The issue which was involved in this debate was "Resolved, That the United States should establish a protectorate over Mexico." The affirmative side of the question was upheld by the Junior team, composed of A. F. Grassmyer, H. E. Nunemaker, Clayton H. Kratz, captain, and Lloyd G. Hershberger, alternate, while the negative side of the question was supported by the Senior team: A. R. Eschliman, Vernon D. Shoup, E. A. Meyer, captain, and Noah Burkhard, alternate.

This debate was perhaps the most bitterly contested interclass debate ever held at Goshen. Both teams had the question well in hand and both fought hard for the decision.

The judges for the debate were Attorney Warren Burkey, Rev. E. A. Schultz of the First Baptist Church, and Professor D. A. Lehman. The judges decided 2-1 in favor of the affirmative.

Freshman-Sophomore Debate

FRESHMAN TEAM

Fulmer, Schertz, Eve, E. Yoder

SOPHOMORE TEAM

Krabill, A. King, G. Hershberger, Steiner

The Freshman-Sophomore debate was held on the evening of November 21st. The discussion was based on the proposition: "Resolved, That the present restrictions on the immigration of the yellow race be removed."

The Freshman team, composed of Lee Eve, Ray Schertz, Clarence Fulmer, captain, and Elmer Yoder, alternate, defended the affirmative side of the question while the negative was upheld by the Sophomore team, composed of Luke Steiner, Mahlon Krabill, Allen King, captain, and Glen Hershberger, alternate. Both teams showed the fighting spirit which is necessary for a good debate.

The judges for this debate were Dean Barnhart, editor of the Goshen Democrat; Rev. Mr. Meyers of the First Brethren Church, and Attorney Dausman. They decided 3-0 in favor of the Freshman team.

Unusual interest was shown in this debate. Some real class spirit made the debate worth while.

The Affirmative Intercollegiate Team

Krabill      Professor Weaver, Coach
Fulmer      Kratz      Hershberger

On Friday evening, March 26th, Goshen's Affirmative team clashed with Manchester's Negative team in the Goshen College auditorium. The Goshen team was composed of Clarence A. Fulmer, Mahlon O. Krabill, Clayton H. Kratz, captain, and L. G. Hershberger, alternate. The Goshen team was coached by Prof. W. B. Weaver assisted by Prof. J. R. Allgyer.

The question which was debated was, "Resolved, that the United States should adopt a system of Compulsory Arbitration for all labor disputes." Both teams had the oratory and fire which make a good debate and both teams had the question in hand. It was one of the best debates ever heard on the local floor. The judges decided 2-1 in favor of the visiting team.

The best kind of feeling was shown between the Manchester and Goshen teams and we feel that events of this kind are necessary to the development of the proper school spirit.

The Negative Intercollegiate Team

Shoup

Professor Meyer, Coach
Steiner

Meyer

Yoder

The Goshen Negative Team, consisting of Vernon D. Shoup, Luke E. Steiner, E. A. Meyer, captain, and Elmer J. Yoder, alternate, with their coach, Prof. Meyer, traveled to Mt. Morris where they met the Mt. Morris Affirmative team on Friday evening, March 26th. The team supported the negative of the question: "Resolved, that in the United States a system of Compulsory Arbitration should be adopted for all labor disputes." The debate showed that both teams had the subject thoroly in hand and each was convinced that their arguments were true. The odds seemed to be against Goshen and the disappointments were threefold. When the team arrived they were disappointed to find out that the judges were not chosen. The second disappointment was that the rules were misinterpreted, which resulted in a reversal of the order of the rebuttals. The final disappointment came when the judges gave their decision, 3-0 in favor of Mt. Morris.

The debate was lost but many lessons learned and we hope that in the future debates there will be a better understanding and that the "like" will occur, "never again".

The Peace Contest

A. Fay Grassmyer

The Peace Contest was again held this year. This contest has not been held for two years due to conditions brought about by the war. The local contest was held on Tuesday, March 9th, in the Assembly Hall. Five contestants took part and some good oratory was produced. The local contest consisted of the following orations:

The Receding Horizon .....	H. E. Nunemaker
The Pathway to Peace .....	A. F. Grassmyer
The Way to Peace.....	William Stahly
Christian Federation.....	Miles Fletcher
Illegal War.....	Harry F. Weber

The judges, Rev. Gleiser of the Presbyterian church, Attorney J. S. Yoder, and F. S. Ebersole, awarded first prize to Mr. Grassmyer and second prize to Mr. Nunemaker. The prizes of fifteen and ten dollars were given by Attorney B. F. Deahl of Goshen.

Mr. Grassmyer represented Goshen at the State Peace Contest which was held at Val-paraiso University, April 16th. Altho Mr. Grassmyer did not get the prize money, he made a creditable showing of which Goshen may well feel proud. The first prize was won by Donald Snyder of Earlham College and the second prize by Lambert J. Baker of Indiana University.

The Philharmonic Chorus

Director..... Prof. A. S. Ebersole

Accompanist ..... Prof. Otto Holtkamp

As usual, the Philharmonic Chorus held its own as a musical organization during the entire school year. With a chorus of seventy voices, assisted by four Chicago soloists, the rendition of Handel's "Messiah" at the close of the Fall Term was considered a great success. Only under the stern, insisting demands of Professor Ebersole's baton and the attest of the large enthusiastic audiences attending the Philharmonic concerts is the Chorus able to give its very best to the community in the form of a great cantata or oratorio. During the Winter and Spring Terms the Chorus busied itself in thoro preparation for the rendition of its final number, "The Soul Triumphant", by Harry Rowe Shelley, given on Tuesday afternoon of Commencement week.

The concert program for the year was as follows:

Tuesday, October 21—Recital by Helen Stone Torgerson, harpist, and Louise Hattstaedt Winter, soprano.

Tuesday, December 16—"The Messiah" (Handel) by the Philharmonic Chorus. Soloists—Ruth Lowenberg, soprano; Ruth Simmons Worthington, contralto; Edward Walker, tenor; Rollin Pease, bass.

Wednesday, February 18—The Zoellner String Quartet.

Monday, April 26—Recital by Noble Kreider, pianist.

Tuesday, June 8—"The Soul Triumphant" (Shelley), by the Philharmonic Chorus. Local soloists.

Booster Committee—H. C. Miller, chairman; Esther Blosser, A. L. Sprunger, Florence Bender.

The Athletic Association

OFFICERS

President.....	E. A. Meyer
Vice President.....	Martin Baer
Secretary.....	Arthur L. Sprunger
Treasurer.....	Clarence Troyer

The human body is only at its best when its physical forces contribute to the highest efficiency of its religious, intellectual and moral nature. The students of Goshen College, realizing the value of a strong body and the need of some physical exercise, organized the Athletic Association. The membership of the association is open to all the young men of the College who are interested in the development of their bodies. All are encouraged to participate in good, clean athletics. True sportsmanship in all events and upon every occasion is considered a high tribute to all participants. Fair play in every instance and no honor in victory unless honestly won.

There are several means thru which our athletic abilities may be developed. In the fall as soon as the disagreeable weather arrives the basketball tossers are trying their skill. The interclass series bars no one and many are the workouts before the championship is conceded to the victorious team. The spirit is at its zenith and every class sends forth a scrappy team, but the true athletic spirit is always in evidence.

Not every one is interested in basketball, so during the Winter Term the association provides gymnastics for all those who desire some exercise. Two classes in physical culture were organized, these classes met three times a week in the social room where their muscles were developed.

With the coming of spring comes the love for the "diamond". The weather was anything but favorable for baseball; however with determined practicing between snow storms and showers the team was whipped into shape. Every position was coveted by two or three players and all who were issued the "knickerbockers" deserved them.

The friendly rivalry between the literary societies reached its highest point at the intersociety track meet. All the events of a regular conference were participated in and some of the previous records lowered.

As we look back over the year 1919-20, it has all the evidences of the beginning of a new era in athletics for Goshen College. The interclass spirit was tense and of the highest calibre. It was Goshen's first year in Intercollegiate Basketball and altho there were no great honors won, it serves as a beginning. It was the first year for student physical culture classes. A system of granting letters on the percentage basis has been adopted by the association for basketball and baseball players. The material for the baseball team was exceptional and unusual. The great need of physical training has been shown and we are trusting that this additional necessity for the upbuilding of stronger physical, mental and religious lives will come to Goshen in the very near future.

Interclass Basketball

Troyer      Rychener      I. Bauman      Kropf      Shertz

Regardless of the fact that Goshen College does not have a gymnasium, the spirit of basketball cannot be squelched and just as spring brings the birds, cold weather brings those bangs and thumps in the southeast corner of the "Ad" building, and you can assure yourself that the basketball season is on. After a hard day of books nothing is relished more than a good game of basketball. It is a great stimulant for those that partake of the sport and also for those who are on the side lines. The size of the room makes the game rougher for both players and spectators, but in spite of this every class that has five men has a team and every game is well supported.

The first of the Interclass Basketball games was played November 14th. From this time until the final game there was excitement in the gymnasium. The schedule was arranged so that all College and Academy classes are represented. The most interesting game of the year was played on December 3rd between the College Sophomores and the College Freshmen. It was a scrap royal from the first sound of the whistle until the timekeeper sounded the knell for the Sophomores, for the Freshmen were five points in the lead.

The final game of the series was played in the gym "up town" on December 5th, when the College Juniors met the College Freshmen to decide which was the championship team. The College Freshmen team consisting of Shertz, Bauman, Troyer, Rychener and Kropf, was victorious and they will have their name inscribed on the athletic cup.

Intercollegiate Basketball

Schertz, Manager      Steiner      Prof. Keller, Coach
Fuller      Troyer      Bauman
Eigsti      Meyer, Captain      Burkhard

There is one time that is the first time for everything. February 6, 1920 was the date that marked the beginning of Intercollegiate basketball for Goshen College.

After the interclass schedule was played there remained many long winter months before the baseball season and the active members of the Athletic Association put in their plea for real basketball. Their requests were granted by the faculty committee and they were allowed to play five intercollegiate games with the limitations that all be played at Goshen.

The Association immediately rented a gymnasium down town and under the direction of Professor Keller the team was rounded in shape. The handicaps were many. The gymnasium was a mile from the college and this limited the team to two practices a week. In spite of the obstacles, the squad was very regular at practice and remained loyal thruout the year.

Manager Schertz had a difficult task to secure games without promising a return. He must be congratulated for his determined effort, and had it not been for the "flu" the total number of games would have been played. As it was, two games were played. One with North Manchester, and the second game with Tri-State College from Angola; both games resulted in victories for the visiting teams.

The games were very well supported by the students and there is a very hopeful outlook for future basketball at Goshen College.

The continued April rains proved to be a damper on baseball, but those interested were loyal and responded to practice calls.

There was plenty of good material and practically every position was coveted by veterans and promising young stars. The hurling staff was inexperienced, but with determined practice, Kropf and Krabill proved real pill tossers.

A number of games have been arranged with nearby colleges and other teams but at present only one game has been played which resulted in 11-8 victory over Jimtown.

The prospects for an interesting season are very good, and we expect to make this one of Goshen's biggest years in baseball.

A very successful year has been enjoyed by the Tennis Association. The Association is again out of debt and is in good condition financially, having paid off the last of the $200.00 debt which was incurred when the backstops were put up. The association is in good shape in every way and enthusiasm in tennis was never at a higher pitch.

Unusual interest has been shown in tennis this year. The courts were all cleaned up and in the best of shape by the time school started in the fall so that tennis got away with a running start. With all of the courts in the best of condition, the tennis enthusiasts made use of them practically all the time when classes were not in session.

The fall tournament among the young men developed into a rather interesting affair, as there were about a dozen fellows who fought their way towards the finals and stepped out one by one only after some real live tennis had been played. Those who finally fought their way into the finals were Robert Weaver and Glenn Kropf. Both of the players had played a steady game all thruout the series and both earned the right to have the honor of playing in the finals. These finals were played on November 11th. Both men were in good form and both played their usual fast game. They were closely matched, although Kropf was finally defeated by the usual fast work of Weaver. The score was 6-1, 6-3, 7-5.

With all of the enthusiasm which was shown in tennis last fall, it was decided to arrange for intercollegiate doubles. A game was secured with Manchester and then came the tryouts in which competition was exceptionally keen, as eight strong teams took part. The team which finally won out was the one composed of Meyer and Shoup, who played Manchester on the local courts on October 24th. From the start it was evident that the Manchester men had the edge on the Goshen players altho the local boys played a steady and consistent game. The score was 6-1, 6-2, 6-3.

Interest in tennis never was better, and we can look forward to a big year in tennis next year. Interest was increased by the system of granting letters which was worked out in conjunction with the Athletic Association. All winners of single tournaments and the members of intercollegiate teams will receive letters at the close of each school year.

The Students' Council plays an important, tho oftentimes inconspicuous, part in the life of the school. It is the only official medium of communication between the faculty and the students.

The work of the Council added materially to the conduct of the students, especially conduct in the Reading Room. Perhaps the most outstanding feature of the year's work, however, was the working out of the Student Activity Point System. The purpose of this system is to limit the amount of outside work in which a student may take part. A number of the students were carrying more than their share of the responsibilities in the student organizations, and it is the purpose of the plan to relieve those who were doing more than their share. Each office in each of the student organizations was given a number of points according to the amount of work each required. Twenty points is set as the limit as to the number of points which a student may have.

The Chemical Society has a very definite work, bringing before the students the importance of chemistry in the modern world. If it can do this, the society can make a definite contribution to the progress of our country, as chemistry is an integral part of our national progress.

Membership in this organization is open to anyone who has taken more than one year of chemistry. The society tries to have a meeting once a month when subjects relating to the advance and progress of modern chemistry are discussed.

The Scenic Art Club is the most recent of the student organizations, it being organized in the spring of 1919. It was organized in the interests of better pictures. The purpose of the club is not to see how many pictures can be taken, but what quality of photographs can be obtained. In order to get better photographs, meetings are held from time to time in which some of the essentials of good photography are discussed, such as focusing and timing the pictures. Plans are under way for the club to enter picture contests, and to take trips afield at which time the composition of pictures will be studied.

AN EXPLANATION

As this is the 25th anniversary of the founding of our school, we thot it altogether fitting and proper that a Historical Section be included as part of the 1920 Maple Leaf.

We have often wished that the opportunity might present itself by which it would be possible to preserve, in compact form, some of the facts and traditions which have played a part in the history of our school. In the brief historical sketches we have tried to trace the growth of our school down thru the quarter century which brings us to the present. We have also tried to record a few facts relative to the origin of each of the Student Organizations, for we feel that this will be of interest to students as well as Alumni.

We are especially indebted to a number of friends for the kind assistance they have given us in getting these few facts together.

The Alumni

On March, 1901, Mr. N. E. Byers, then principal of the Elkhart Institute, called together all diploma graduates who had finished a two-year course in the institution and suggested that an Alumni Association be effected. The association was organized with the following charter members: I. W. Royer, J. L. Steiner, S. F. Gingerich, A. J. Steiner, Mrs. Emma Byers, Frances R. Zook and Samuel Hondrich. In June of the same year twelve new members were added to the association. The first reception was given on the evening of June 5, 1901, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Byers.

The association at present numbers three hundred and fifty-five members and is incorporated according to the laws of Indiana. The first class to receive the A. B. degree was the class of 1910. In 1911 the publication of the "Alumni News Letter" was launched with P. E. Whitmer as the first editor.

When the association was first organized an Alumni Endowment Fund was launched for the purpose of aiding needy students. In 1906 it was decided that the fund should be used to purchase books for a Mennonite Historical Library at Goshen College. In June, 1912, at the annual meeting of the Alumni Association this library was presented to the College by H. L. Stump. President N. E. Byers received the gift in behalf of the College.

A number of the Alumni began to feel that the association should do more for its Alma Mater, so in June, 1913, the Board of Directors were instructed to form a policy and plan for the development of an Alumni Endowment Fund for Goshen College. As a result J. M. Kurtz, J. F. Ebersole, J. W. Shank and J. E. Hartzler were appointed to work out a plan to raise the said fund. At the suggestion of Mr. Ebersole the committee decided to try to raise $50,000 in ten years. Mr. Shank was appointed as solicitor. According to this plan a member may pay any amount up to $250.00 in the ten years, paying one-tenth of the sum each year. This money is invested each year and bears interest until the expiration of the ten years. At the present time the fund amounts to approximately $20,000. For the last few years the outgoing classes were not solicited but now the work is again being resumed. The present committee consists of J. M. Kurtz as Chairman, Mrs. F. S. Ebersole, vice chairman; I. R. Detweiler, secretary; J. F. Ebersole, treasurer, and J. E. Hartzler. By the time previously agreed upon the amount will undoubtedly be raised.

Goshen College has as yet not been able to realize much financial assistance from its Alumni, but with the increasing number of loyal members, many of whom are becoming successful in business, bright prospects are in store for the future.

Elkhart Institute

THE ELKHART INSTITUTE came into existence in answer to a need for a church school. The question of a church school had been discussed by a number of leading men of the Mennonite church for some time. Several meetings were called at Elkhart, Indiana, and it was finally decided to have Dr. H. A. Mumaw start the school as a private institution which was to be known as Elkhart Institute. A number of men, among whom were J. S. Lehman, J. S. Coffman, A. C. Kolb, A. B. Kolb, F. W. Brunk, D. J. Johns, Jonathan Kurtz, Herman Yoder, J. O. Martin, Samuel Yoder and J. S. Hartzler, promised it their moral support.

Dr. Mumaw started the school in the fall of 1894 with four students enrolled. One teacher, Prof. Hosmer, constituted the teaching staff. Soon a commercial course was added and Prof. T. P. Lahmon was engaged to teach bookkeeping, shorthand and typewriting. Before the end of the first school year, elocution was also added. These were days of small beginnings.

In May, 1895, The Elkhart Institute Corporation was formed, providing for a capital stock of $10,000 (later increased to $25,000). Plans were then made for the erection of a suitable building which was soon started. The Fall Term opened in the G. A. R. Hall but in January, 1896, the school was moved to its new building on Prairie Street.

The first annual catalogue was issued in 1896 and at that time the Institute was offering a four-year Academic Course, the third and fourth years of which was known as the Scientific Course. Several years later the course was revised and the old Academic Course gave way to a course which was designed to meet college entrance requirements. This was the Latin-Scientific Course which continued until the institution was moved to Goshen in 1903.

One of the main difficulties which the management had to deal with was to get qualified teachers who would strive to make the school what it was intended to be. It was not until 1898 that the majority of the teachers were members of the same church as the founders. In this year, Prof. N. E. Byers became the principal of the school. Altho courses of study had been planned and a general policy for the school had been discussed, to Prof. Byers fell the task of working out the courses of study and the general policy for the school.

THE MAPLE LEAF

Gradually the school made progress. From the small number of thirty-five who enrolled the first year, the number gradually increased until it became evident that a new location was necessary. Several places were suggested among which were Highland Park, Elkhart, Wadsworth, Ohio, and Goshen. In May, 1903, the invitation of the city of Goshen was accepted and plans were begun for the removal of the school to its new home.

Elkhart Institute has ceased to exist, even the building which accommodated the school in its early days has been razed, but Elkhart Institute will always live in the memory of those who knew her, and she will always be revered by the students of Goshen College as the Mother Institution of the school they love.

History of Goshen College

REAT movements have small beginnings. And so it was with the school which we are proud to call our Alma Mater. From the humble beginning which she made in the fall of 1903, Goshen has grown until now she ranks with the better colleges of the Middle West. Few colleges can show the rapid progress that Goshen has made from an educational standpoint and few colleges have turned out students who are as serious and as interested in the important things of life.

Goshen College made her humble beginning in the fall of 1903. Early in May of that year, the invitation of the city of Goshen to establish the institution in her city was accepted and on June 12th the present site of Goshen College was dedicated. Hon. Anthony Deahl delivered the address of welcome and the response was made by C. Henry Smith representing the new institution. The ground was then broken for the new building, J. S. Hartzler holding the plow which outlined the site of the new building.

NOAH E. BYERS

On September 29, 1903, Goshen College opened her doors for the first time to students. The only building which was completed at that time was the building now known as East Hall. It was built for a ladies' dormitory but as the Administration Building was not completed, the management was forced to use part of this building for class work. The second floor was used for girls' rooming quarters; the first floor for recitation rooms and chapel exercises, while the basement accommodated the dining hall, reading room and carpenter shop. Thus Goshen College began.

Work was rushed on the Administration Building and by January 6, 1904,

THE MAPLE LEAF

ALUMNI AND HISTORICAL

enough rooms were finished so that the school work could be transferred from the dormitory to the Administration Building. The building was dedicated on the evening of January 8, 1904.

The next big problem was to get sufficient rooming places for the students. Goshen had already begun to grow and the first plans proved inadequate. In answer to this need Kulp Hall was built in the summer and fall of 1906 and was used as a ladies' dormitory. East Hall then became the men's dormitory.

JOHN ELLSWORTH HARTZLER
President 1913-1918

The educational progress of the school was under the direction of President Byers, the first president of Goshen College. To President Byers must go much of the credit for putting the school on a sound educational basis. In 1903, the Academy Department was completely reorganized. The old four-year "Latin-Scientific" Course gave way to a four-year Academy Course and a two-year College Course. This two-year course was recognized by other colleges so that in 1905 Goshen became what is known as a Junior College. In 1909 the entire College Department was reorganized and nine distinct departments were formed with a professor at the head of each department. Each department head had become a specialist in his particular field so that the standard of scholarship was raised. This made possible another big step in the growth of the school, which came in 1910 when Goshen granted her first A. B. degrees.

In the spring of 1913 the administration of President Byers came to a close. To President Byers must go the credit of developing the educational phase of the institution so that it could offer a four-year college course which was recognized by institutions of higher learning.

ALUMNI AND HISTORICAL

President Byers was succeeded in the fall of 1913 by the new president, John Ellsworth Hartzler. During his administration the various departments were further strengthened so that in 1915 Goshen was able to grant her first A. M. degree. In 1915 a new department was added when the Agricultural Department was organized. A year later, 1916, another new department was added when the Home Economics Department was organized.

As Goshen College had already grown larger than the most optimistic of the organizers had dreamed, it was necessary to make plans for a greater Goshen. First of all it was necessary to rearrange the campus plans. The original quadrangle which had been planned, proved to be entirely too small. So new plans were made which necessitated the moving of East Hall from its old location just east of the Adelphian fountain to its present location on the north side of College Avenue, opposite the campus. East Hall was moved in the spring of 1916. Another important material change which was brot about during this period was the buying of the College Farm early in 1914 to aid in the development of the Agricultural Department which was organized a year later. To further accommodate the increasing number of students, the Science Hall was built in 1915, thus making it possible for Goshen to accommodate a larger student body.

GEORGE J. LAPP

Early in 1918 President Hartzler resigned the presidency of the institution. The five years of his administration were marked by progress both in a material and educational way. He was succeeded by George J. Lapp. Altho with the College but little more than a year, President Lapp proved himself to be an earnest worker and a man of ideas. Under his administration the financial campaign was launched which later so favorably helped Goshen in her standardization. President Lapp retired from the presidency in the fall of 1919 in order to resume his work in the mission field.

ALUMNI AND HISTORICAL

In the fall of 1919 H. Frank Reist became the new head of the school. Altho he has been with us less than a year, he has shown himself to be a man of vigor and a man of ability. To President Reist and Prof. Detweiler must go the credit for the raising of the money which was the last step in the standardization of Goshen College which was a very significant step in the history of the school.

February 13, 1919, marks a very important date in the twenty-five years of progress of this institution as it was on this day that the Indiana State Board of Education recognized Goshen as a full standard college which means that the graduates of Goshen will have no difficulty in getting state recognition for their work.

The prospects for a greater Goshen were never brighter. The constituency which the school represents are interested in the cause of the school. The city of

H. FRANK REIST
President 1919-

Goshen is backing the school as never before and finally she is getting the financial support of which she has been so long in need. The prospects for a new gymnasium and a new men's dormitory are loining up in the near vista of the future. A new era has dawned for Goshen College.

But do not think that Goshen has reached her ideal. No, far from that, for Goshen will never reach her ideal; she is following a moving ideal. An ideal which grows and becomes of deeper meaning as the knowledge of men more perfectly interpret the will of the Almighty as it slowly unfolds itself to men.

History of STUDENT ORGANIZATIONS

Religious

Y. P. C. A.

The Y. P. C. A. was organized at Elkhart Institute in 1898. It came in recognition of a need of the students for a religious organization of their own. The first officers of the organization were:

President.....	N. E. Byers
Vice-President.....	F. S. Ebersole
Secretary.....	Anna Holdeman
Treasurer.....	S. A. Kurtz

A devotional meeting was held each week of the school year. This plan has been followed to the present time. Missionary and Bible classes were organized at the beginning of the organizations. Additions have been made to the work of the Y. P. until there are now eight distinct departments. The work has been somewhat divided, the young men and young women having separate organizations.

Every year representatives have been sent to the summer conferences of the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A. Professor I. R. Detweiler was the first student to attend the Geneva Conference at Lake Geneva, Wisconsin.

STUDENT VOLUNTEER BAND

The Student Volunteer Movement was organized at Elkhart Institute in the school year of 1899-1900. Prof. I. R. Detweiler was the first president of the band, and the first secretary was Miss Olivia Good. From the beginning the band encouraged the need of missionary activity and the result is that a number of Goshen's students have given themselves wholeheartedly to the cause of missions.

CHRISTIAN WORKERS' BAND

The Christian Workers' Band was organized in the fall of 1914. The purpose of this band is to bring before the students the need of Christian service by bringing the needs of the rural communities, the cities, and society in general before them.

Literary Societies

The history of literary organizations of Goshen College begins with the organization of the Elkhart Institute Literary Society. This society admitted any student of Elkhart Institute to membership, but it soon became evident that one society was too small to accommodate the entire student body; so the society was divided into two new societies; one the Ciceronian Debating Club which was a society for men; and the other the Philomathean Society which was an organization for women.

In less than a year the Ciceronian Debating Club became too large to do efficient work, so it was decided that a further division should be made; the Ciceronians being divided into two new societies; the Aurora Literary Society and the C. M. A. (Adelphian) Literary Society. Two years later the Philomatheans were divided into the Vesperian and Avon literary societies.

Up to 1909 the membership of the literary societies consisted of both college and academy students, but at this time it was deemed advisable to form a society for college men and also a society for college women. This brought two new societies into existence; the Emersonian Society, the society for college men; and the Alethea Society, which was the society for college women. The societies were organized on October 18, 1909.

But as Goshen College grew, there soon came the time when the college students outnumbered the academy students so that the two college societies could not do efficient work because of the large numbers and the four academy societies were handicapped by the lack of members. It was more logical to have the four societies in the college and the two societies in the academy. In October 1913, the Emersonian Society disbanded and Aurora and Adelphian became the names of the new college societies, while the name of Ciceronian was recalled as the name of the academy society. In April, 1914, the ladies' societies decided to make a change similar to the change which the men's societies had made earlier in the school year, so the Alethea Society was dissolved and the names of the academy societies, Vesperian and Avon became the names of the new college societies. But this left the academy girls without a society, so the name of Philomathean was again taken as the name of the new academy society.

This brings us to the literary society situation as it is today. The Aurora and Adelphian societies being the societies for college men and the Vesperian and Avon societies for college women; while the literary activities of the academy are directed by the Ciceronians and the Philomatheans. As time goes on new divisions will probably be made as no society can work efficiently with more than forty members.

A short history follows of the early organization and growth of each of the societies which are now active literary societies at Goshen College:

CICERONIANS

The original Ciceronian Society was a branch of the Elkhart Institute Literary Society and was organized on September 28, 1898. It soon became too large for efficient work and in the fall of 1899 it was divided into the Aurora and C. M. A. (Adelphian) Societies. The name of Ciceronian ceased to exist until October 13, 1913 when the name was again used as the name of the academy men's society.

ALUMNI AND HISTORICAL

AURORAS

The Aurora Literary Society elected its first corps of officers on December 13, 1899, when the society was considered completely organized, Jacob Burkhard being the first president. It was organized as an academy society and remained as such until October, 1913 when it became a college society for college men.

ADELPHIANS

The Adelphean Society was originally organized as an academy society under the name of Coming Men of America Debating Club on December 13, 1899 with Mr. F. N. Kornhaus as the first president. This name was changed to its present name of Adelphean June 11, 1908. It became a society for college men in October 1913.

PHILOMATHEANS

The original Philomathean Society came into existence when the Elkhart Institute Society was divided in the fall of 1898, after that society had become too large for the best work. In a few years the Philomathean Society became too large, so it was divided into the Vesperian and Avon societies and the Philomathean name was dropped until the name was again taken in the spring of 1914 as the name of the academy girls' society.

VESPERIANS

The Vesperian Literary Society was organized on October 7, 1901, it being a division of the Philomathean Society. The first president of the Vesperians was Bertha Zook-Deweiler. This society was organized as an academy society and remained as such until April, 1914, when it became a college society.

AVONS

The Avon Literary Society was organized on October 14, 1901, and the first regular meeting was held on November 4, 1901. Miss Alta Kurtz was the first president of the Avons. The Avon Society was organized as an academy society and remained as such until April, 1914, when it became one of the college societies.

STUDENTS' LIBRARY ASSOCIATION

The Students' Library Association came into existence on May 9, 1903, just before the school was moved to its new home in Goshen. The first officers of the association were:

President.....	M. C. Lehman
Vice-President .....	C. E. Bender
Secretary .....	Nancy Kulp
Treasurer .....	A. C. Ramseyer

STUDENTS' LECTURE BOARD

The Students' Lecture Board was organized on November 13, 1905, when a motion was passed at a joint meeting of the literary societies, that one member from each of the literary societies and a faculty member should compose the board. The first board was composed of: S. F. Gingerich (Faculty), Florence Culp (Vesperian), Maude Barry (Avon), J. Frank Ebersole (Aurora), and B. D. Smucker (C. M. A.)

The Oratorical Association

The Oratorical Association was organized in November 1911, when plans were made for the first interclass debates. In January 1912 the first interclass debate was held.

At least two interclass debates have been held every year for the last eight years. These debates are fine training and develop material for the intercollegiate contests which are held every year. The intercollegiate debaters are chosen from the interclass debaters.

Early in the fall of 1912 plans were completed by which the Triangular Debating League came into existence. This league was composed of Mt. Morris, North Manchester, and Goshen colleges, and has continued to the present time with the exception of the two years during the war when the debates were not held. The first intercollegiate debate was held April 22, 1913. Goshen has won eight victories out of twelve debates.

There is another phase of oratory that Goshen participates in, and of which she is proud, because a former president of this school started the movement. This is the Intercollegiate Peace Contest which was organized in 1904 at the suggestion of President N. E. Byers. It has been extremely successful and Goshen has made creditable showing among the other colleges and universities of the state. Goshen men have won second prize in this contest on three different occasions.

Music

PHILHARMONIC

The Philharmonic Chorus which has long been one of the leading musical organizations at Goshen, was organized on September 3, 1897 at Elkhart Institute. The officers which were elected at that time were:

President.....	D. F. Jantzen
Vice President. ....	Mrs. S. B. McCracken
Secretary.....	D. J. Coffman
Treasurer.....	A. C. Kolb

The first work which was taken up was Handel's "Messiah". This organization has since grown to embody a chorus of sixty members and its work is always appreciated as is shown by the crowds which come out to hear them.

GIRLS' GLEE CLUB

The Ladies' Glee Club was organized in the fall of 1916 with Miss Sylvia Bontrager as Director. The first president of the club was Miss Maude Byler. The club organized with thirteen members but has since increased to twenty members. The club has given a number of programs each year since its organization which were always thoroly enjoyed.

MEN'S GLEE CLUB

The Mens' Glee Club was organized on February 7, 1914, at the suggestion of Prof. Ebersole, with S. N. Nunemaker as the first president. With exception of the year 1918-1919, the Club has given programs every year since its organization.

Athletics

ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

The Athletic Association was organized at the Elkhart Institute in the fall of 1900. J. W. Yoder was elected president and it was largely thru his efforts that early success was realized. Running, jumping, shot put, hammer throw, pole vault, and baseball were the main sports which were developed.

When the school came to Goshen, the Athletic Association was again active. Baseball proved to be the most popular of the athletic activities. Intercollegiate baseball has never been developed to any extent altho games have been played with Winona and Manchester colleges.

The first game of intercollegiate basketball was played here on February 6, 1920 when the local team played Manchester College.

TENNIS ASSOCIATION

The organization of the Tennis Association grew out of a need for more athletic activities. It was organized at the Elkhart Institute on April 10, 1901. This organization was brought about largely thru the efforts of Miss Liela G. Munsell and Prof. J. W. Yoder. The officers elected at that time were:

President ..... Bertha Zook

Secretary-Treasurer..... Adeline Brunk

Two courts were laid out at the Morehouse Addition. Considerable interest was shown in tennis so that it was an easy matter to perpetuate interest in tennis at Goshen. Interest in tennis has always been strong at Goshen, and it has been one of our leading forms of athletic activities. At present there are five tennis courts located at the rear of the Science Hall. At one time one of the tennis courts was located west of the 'Ad' building and southwest of Kuhp Hall, but later it was deemed advisable to have all of the courts located south of the Science Hall.

Publications

THE COLLEGE RECORD

The first publication of the school was the old Elkhart Institute Monthly which made its first appearance in October, 1898. W. J. Jacobs was the first editor and I. R. Detweiler was the first business manager. The subscription price of the Institute Monthly was twenty-five cents a year. This paper had a "guaranteed circulation of 10,000", it being used for advertising purposes.

When the school was moved to Goshen, the publication was continued under a new name, "The Goshen College Record", which made its first appearance with the June-July issue of 1903. C. K. Hostetter was the first editor with S. F. Gingerich, Lydia Liechty, and John E. Hartzler as associate editors. This publication has continued without interruption and is published each month thruout the year and once during the summer.

THE MAPLE LEAF

From the time the school was organized no year book or annual was published until 1904 when Goshen's first annual was published. The name of this publication was "The Reflector" and was a forty-eight-page edition. The first editor of The Reflector was J. E. Hartzler, and G. H. Rutt was the first business manager. It was published for five years, 1904-1908 inclusive, when it was discontinued.

From 1908-1915 Goshen was without a college annual. In 1915 the need for a year book became increasingly evident and a new annual was launched. The new publication was "The Maple Leaf", the name of the present annual. The name was suggested by P. E. Whitmer, the Dean of the College. Vernon J. Smucker was the first editor of The Maple Leaf and Clifford Brunk the first business manager. The name of Maple Leaf has been continued, and the 1920 edition is the sixth volume.

Miscellaneous Organizations

STUDENTS' COUNCIL

The Students' Council was organized in answer to need for some organization which could adequately represent the opinion of the student body. It was organized in 1905-1906 with N. E. Byers as chairman, ex-officio. A representative from each class and from each of the student organizations made up the council at that time. Since, however, the constitution was changed so that only the classes and Y. P. C. A. are represented on the council.

CHEMICAL SOCIETY

The Chemical Society elected its first officers in the fall of 1914 and was organized for the purpose of creating a greater interest in chemistry. The following officers were elected for the first year:

President.....	Channey H. Dunker
Vice President.....	Orns R. Yoder
Secretary-Treasurer.....	Ida Eby

SCENIC ART CLUB

The Scenic Art Club is the youngest of the student organizations, being organized in the spring of 1919. It was organized with the desire to create a greater interest in good pictures. The first officers were:

President.....	Arthur L. Sprunger
Secretary.....	Berdine Thornton
Treasurer.....	Glen Herslberger

MEET OUR FRIEND, DICK

I am in the Reading Room every day. I am not beautiful to look at, but my attractions are inward graces and there is not a real student in Goshen College who does not admit this.

I do not wish to boast, but what I say is considered law, even by Professor Isaac C. Keller. I believe I stand alone as the only personage whose opinion the professors do not call into question. Then why should not the students come to me with their problems and ask my opinion on weighty subjects?

Both the men and women of the school often leave their companions and books to consult me. They fondle me lovingly, they look into my face, and never failing to find the answer to their query, they leave me once more only to make room for some other student who desires a session with me. I might say here, that no one ever sits down in my presence. They invariably stand before me with head bowed down respectfully. I appreciate this, for it is only in this attitude that a student can get the information he desires.

I, with the professors, would urge that the students of Goshen make known their problems to me, for I am Webster's Unabridged Dictionary.

GENERAL INFORMATION

CAMPUS AND BUILDINGS

The Campus consists of ten acres (more or less) located in the southern part of a fine city. It is bounded on the west by Main street; on the east by the Big Four; experience in Home Economics makes this course very popular.

on the south by The Winona Railway, and on the north by College Avenue. This provides good shipping facilities.

The Administration Building is a commodious four-story, stone and brick structure. It contains modern well-lighted recitation rooms, offices, library, reading rooms, assembly hall, commercial rooms, gymnasium, cloak rooms, and others too numerous to mention. The reading room is larger than the gymnasium and often mistaken for latter.

Kulp Hall is a stone and brick building three stories above the ground floor. It contains the students' dining hall, music studio, reception hall, Matron's rooms together with practice rooms. The second and third floors contain furnished rooms for the elite young women.

East Hall has a lower and upper story which are divided into three separate apartments. When not used for a pest house it furnishes rooms for young men.

MUSEUM

The Museum which was founded immediately after the Civil War is on the second floor of Science Hall; there are exhibited various things of interest such as fossil remains of animals, minerals, oriental costumes and Indian relics. Gifts to the Museum are always appreciated and plans are being made to protect with suitable cases all new material. Music students noted for their bravery are allowed to practice on the piano in this room.

ATHLETICS

A room in the basement of the Administration Building is devoted to physical exercise. A bath room with shower bath and dressing room adjoins the gymnasium.

The Athletic field contains a sixth-mile track, baseball diamond, and tennis courts. The Elkhart River is near the college and affords opportunity for skating (ice), rowing and swimming.

DINING HALL

It is the purpose of the managers of the college dining hall to furnish the lowest possible supply of wholesome food at the best rates securable.

Time—Saturday night, 1 o'clock.
Dramatis Personae—Miss Steiner,
Prof. Meyer.

SCENE I.

Kulp Hall Porch. Cold and Stormy.
Repeated ringing of bell fails to wake Miss Yoder.
Mr. Meyer (perplexed)—“Why, what will we do?”
Miss Steiner—“Let’s see,—Oh, I know, I could stay over night at Ebersole’s.”
Mr. Meyer—“Maybe you’d better do that. Let’s go.”

SCENE II.

Prof. Ebersole’s Porch.
Try to ring door bell for five minutes and then discover it to be out of commission. Try window—locked. Begin banging at the door. Mr. Ebersole, rudely awakened, tries to find the door; bangs into the window, upsets a chair, awakening his gentle wife who offers assistance. Finally Mr. Ebersole reaches the stairway and calls, “Who’s there?”
Faint voice below—“It’s Esther.”
Mr. Ebersole unlocks the door, arrangements for the remainder of the night are made for Miss Steiner and Prof. Meyer leaves studying student problem from an entirely new angle.

A TRAGEDY

Place—Kulp Hall.
Time—Sunday P. M.
Dramatis Personae—Matron, Harold Mast, Edna Cook and Girls.

SCENE I.

Kulp Hall, 12:30 P. M.
Phone rings. Matron answers.
Matron—“Yes, I’ll call her.” Absently goes upstairs forgetting whom she was to call but thinks it was Edna Cook.
Edna C. (at telephone)—“Yes, sure I’ll go. I’ll be ready at three.”
Goes upstairs three steps at a time.
“Oh, girls, I’ve got the best date this afternoon.”
Girls (in concert)—“Who? Who?”
Edna—“Wait and see.”

SCENE II.

Kulp Hall, 3:00 P. M.
Harold Mast—“Will you call Miss Thut, please?”
Matron—“Why, she has gone out.”
Harold M.—“Why that’s funny when I have a date with her.”
Matron looks blank but offers him no comfort and he returns to his room muttering something about “the fickleness of women.”

SCENE III.

Room in Kulp Hall, 4:00 P. M.
Miss Cook—“Well, this is a nice way to treat a girl. Here it’s four o’clock and I’ve waited a whole hour. What’s the matter with him? Maybe he’s sleeping. He surely wouldn’t forget to come, would he? Well, I’m not going to sit here any longer; I’m going to see if I can find any girls to take a walk.”
Enter girls—“We’re still waiting to see whom your date is with.”
Edna—“Oh, be still.”

SOME GUY

Miss Bartholomew—(Discussing the mail plane that burned at New Paris March 10.)—"Yes, the man exploded and blew up his aeroplane."

JES' SO

Shertz—"Are you going to get that algebra lesson?"

Ryck—"I'll think about it when I have time."

Shertz—"It takes more than time to think."

CONCENTRATED INTEREST

Clay Miller—"What new books came in today?"

Miss Hostettler names the list.

H. C. M.—"No Sociology?"

Miss H.—"No."

H. C. M.—"That's all I'm interested in."

TOUGH LUCK

Eschliman—"Whenever they do get a song I can sing, they only sing one verse."

Weber—"That's the reason."

EXCHANGE

Prof. Kurtz in Physics—"Who has a tuning fork?"

D. Hostettler—"I have a pitch pipe. It isn't very good, it belongs to Clay Miller."

Diller—"Does the pitch pipe go with the girl?"

Esther B. (later)—"No, the girl goes with the pitch pipe."

WE ASK FOR INFORMATION

How can Gaius Baumgardner reach up to comb his hair?

Why Berdine Thornton always wears red?

Why Savilla Wenger dodges the matron at meal time?

Why Esther Blosser is taking cooking?

Why Art always has a Riesen?

Why Ina's favorite song is "And 'e Loves"?

Why Edna Eigsti never talks slow and Herman Kreider never talks fast?

Why Agnes Anderson isn't as Nice the spring term as she was the winter term?

Why Mary Sommer never has a grouch?

DAN'S POEME

Said the man to the lady

While close by the dam,

"I say that you're not quite
As tall as I am."

While jolly Miss Eigsti

Responded with glee,

"Oh, no, Mr. Evans,

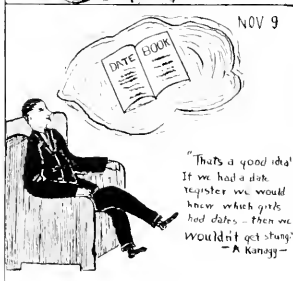

You're not tall as me."

We think the question is

Not which is the taller,

But really we wonder

Which one is the smaller.

A FAIR EXCHANGE

Ed Smith—"Who is that girl at the second table?"

I. Bauman—"A Hostetler girl, I didn't get her first name."

Ed Smith—"You got her last name then, did you?"

THAT SWIMMING MATCH

One of the great events of the year which took place on the third floor was a swimming match to which both second and third floor girls were invited.

The natatorium was packed with all eager to see the greatest contest of the season. Suddenly a rap was heard at the door. Deathly silence prevailed—at last broken by the matron's "Girls, there will be no performance this evening." But the interested spectators were told to remain. The last call was given and the door was closed and barred. Just at the crucial moment a voice pierced thru the keyhole, "Girls, let me in!"

The mob gave no response.

"Girls, let me in," came louder thru the aperture.

A quiet smile ran thru the audience, but they held their peace.

At last the door gave way and the matron looked down at two innocent matches floating on the still waters of the bath-tub. No black marks were given.

OPPORTUNITY

Mary Yoder (after reading the following sign on the Bulletin Board—Wanted, more girls. 400 Tri-State Fellows.

"How far is that college from here?"

EXPLAIN, LLOYD!

Prof. Meyer—"Mr. Hershberger, explain the succession of kings."

Mr. Hershberger—"Well, when a king dies the eldest son takes the throne. If he has no eldest son, the second eldest takes it."

Saturday, 13—Normal students give social. "Rook" occupies many rooms in the Ad building.

Sunday, 14—Victor howled out again before three o'clock.

Monday, 15—Lights go out in Kulp Hall. Big sing on second floor. Matron warns us not to overdo.

Tuesday, 16—Depression—we fear foul play. Winter term students make their farewell dates. Bachman, Sommer and Neuman cooperate. See Sun. 21.

Wed, 17—The plot thickens—exams ahead.

Thursday, 18—The worst has come. Exams. But lecture is compensation.

Friday, 19—Term closes. But Metamora boys stay for week-end festivities.

Saturday, 20—Mouse hung in Fern's hair-net. Dave and Kratz plan another tour, with the traveling bag.

Sunday, 21—Spöker and Yoder go to Elkhart; Nellie Miller's Mann calls at Dorm.

Tuesday, 23—"Bups" Bender eats seven pieces of bread.

Wednesday, 24—Maxwell Hutchinson attends chapel.

Thursday, 25—Clay Miller arranges his educational subjects with Miss Martin.

Friday, 26—Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Smucker and son visit the college. Intercollegiate Debates, followed by a reception. Girls scarce, boys glum.

Saturday, 27—Debaters Meyer and Shoup return from Mt. Morris. Big Reception committee at Depot. Shoup wonders if there isn't some mistake.

Sunday, 28—Rainy—no walks to the dam. Boys' Glee Club goes to Nappance. The Thorntons entertain.

Monday, 29—Blue Monday, even "Red" is blue. E. Yoder and L. Steiner report an attack of pickpockets while in Chicago.

Tuesday, 30—Hortense Nielson demonstrated public speaking "on the breath." However she doesn't seem to advocate "feet on the floor". In the evening she read "The Doll's House" and students listened breathlessly.

Wednesday, 31—Hush! Hush! Scandal. Ladder found at Miss Leaman's window. Shoup hangs himself—on the "Word to the Wise" fence—loses watch.

SNORE ON!

'Twas the last day of March
And the lights were off;
The dorm was all quiet
'Cept for a sneeze or a cough.
And the matron started snoring.

On second floor, in a little room,
Big Ben was ticking proudly;
He had never been in that room before
So yelled at 12:30 loudly.
And the matron kept on snoring.

Two little imps jumped out of bed
And hurried down the hall.
They stumbled over the north stair-steps
And ran into the wall.
Still the matron kept on snoring.

They were going to get the matron's clock
And turn it an hour ahead.
They opened the door of the outer room
And went through with stealthy tread,
And the matron kept on snoring.

The clock was nowhere to be seen
But they heard a tiny sound;
It was in the inner room instead;
Their hearts began to pound.
But the matron kept on snoring.

They opened the door, the wind blew through,
And made a fearsome clatter.
They saw the clock by the matron's bed,
But now that didn't matter—
For the matron kept on snoring.

They sneaked the clock,
Turned it an hour ahead,
And placed it silently
By the matron's bed
And the matron kept on snoring.

Next morning the matron in excited state
Rushed into the hall pell-mell,
"It's ten of seven my alarm clock says,
Past time for the rising bell."
She had ceased her awful snoring.

She looked at her watch and the calendar:
"To me Fate snore is cruel,
I got up an hour too soon, I did,
Because it is April Fool,
I will never again be snoring."

Postscript

The 1920 Maple Leaf is finished. Its imperfections may exceed its merits but we have the satisfaction of knowing that we have done our best.

It is no simple matter to edit a book such as the Maple Leaf, and it could not have been published if it had not been for the help and encouragement of the student body and faculty. We wish to thank those who have contributed to the publishing of the Maple Leaf; those who have helped with the art work; those who contributed articles and suggestions which have added materially to the makeup of the book; and to the Glee Clubs for their financial assistance.

We especially desire to thank the student body and faculty for the wholehearted interest and encouragement which they have given us in our work. Our work has been made easier by the knowledge that we had the student body and faculty behind us in our undertaking.

THE MAPLE LEAF STAFF.

An Appreciation

The Editor wishes to express his thanks and appreciation to the members of the Maple Leaf Staff for the splendid support which they have given him. It has indeed been an inspiration to work with a group whose determined purpose has been the success of the Maple Leaf.

You've often said:

"Where will I get it?"

—But here it is:

"Which shall I take?"

In fact, the only question that will come into your mind after you've once entered our Store for that New Suit is:

"Which style and fabric suits me best?"

You'll find everything that is new and correct—priced according to our policy of giving you all we can for your money instead of getting all we can for our goods.

Entering the World Electrical

THE graduate of today enters a world electrical.

Gathered from the distant waterfalls or generated by the steam turbine, electric power is transmitted to the busiest city or the smallest country place.

Through the co-ordination of inventive genius with engineering and manufacturing resources, the General Electric Company has fostered and developed to a high state of perfection these and numerous other applications.

And so electricity, scarcely older than the graduate of today, appears in a practical, well developed service on every hand.

Recognize its power, study its applications to your life's work, and utilize it to the utmost for the benefit of all mankind.
